GOKTEIK BRIDGE

Gokteik Bridge was constructed over 100 years ago. It is the highest bridge in Myanmar. The rail line was constructed during the British Empire. The bridge can be reached by taking a train from Mandalay or Pyin Oo Lwin north to Naung Cho where the bridge is located about 5 km further east.

HOW TO GET THERE

The most convenient way is to fly from Yangon, Bagan or Mandalay to Heho, which is the nearest airport to the lake. There are daily flights to Heho. If you are flying from Mandalay to Heho, it takes only 20 minutes. Trawling by car along the uphill and winding road over the Shan Plateau is interesting and well-worth taking although it takes long hours. There is also a regular train service via Thazi Junction to Heho and Shwe Nyang, the nearest station to the lake.
